

How to print your certificate

(and not everyone else's!)

1. Save this file and open in your PDF Reader. (Either Adobe or Foxit reader)
 - a. Do not try and print it from your browser!
2. Scroll down till you find your certificate.
 - Sorted 1st place getters then by category
3. Make sure your certificate is in the middle of the page.
4. Click 'File' then "Print"
5. A printer dialog box will appear, and then you need to click O "Current page"
6. Click OK to print the certificate.

2019 Trans Tasman notes from the manager.

We received one more log than last year by log submission time, and one late comer who missed the boat. The upload site worked well without any hitches, EXCEPT for people using OLD software that does not cater for the latest trends and scoring. The logs were then sent to the manager while heads were being scratched. A quick retype of the header and upload to the website got these ops a reply email from the server containing their new updated log.

Some noteworthy points.

- * Ops not checking for the latest logger update thereby creating V2 Cabrillo files, instead of Ver 3 required by the log checker.
- * Ops not checking the header information in the Cabrillo file before sending
- * PC Clocks not on correct times resulting as a "not in other persons Log" error during cross checking.
- * A couple of stations were calling and working the contest in the Digital Section on 80m – In future these stns will have their logs disqualified.
- * Although there was no real mode categories in the contest most headers were titled MIXED when there was only one mode used. Correct modes assist in statistical information and correct logging procedures regardless.
- * N1MM Logger lovers will have noticed that it scores too well and the score was well above what it should be. - There is a work in progress to rectify this issue.
- * VKCL Logger would not allow scoring from nr 1 on each band. No big deal, it doesn't affect the scoring in anyway, and now the log checking software is here, it is not an issue.

On a good note, it seems the TT is a winner and everyone will be back next year. Full results on contester.azurewebsites.net or on the WIA contest pages. Best 73 and thank you.
